

State Pooling Resources To Fight Crime

Commission Meets For First Time

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Officials from the top levels of state and local government have organized to fight crime where in the past such efforts were fragmented.

The Commission on Criminal Justice, which held its first meeting in Lansing Friday, hopes to pool the knowledge and experience of its 73 members in a coordinated attack on crime and to even the sometimes unsteady hand of justice in Michigan.

Donald LeDuc, the 31-year-old director of the Governor's Office of Criminal Justice Programs, said after the meeting, "Fragmentation of the criminal justice system bred inefficiency and delays. We hope to open a forum for discussion."

LeDuc said officials from local police chiefs to legislators seeking a united front against crime and injustice have been confounded by "at least 100,000 people around the state who were involved in policy — judges, clerks, police, sheriffs, lawyers."

While battles were fought on many fronts, there was no coordinated war plan, he said.

As one of its first acts, the new commission approved some $23.1 million in federal Law Enforcement Assistance Agency funds for dispersal in Michigan.

In its projected year-long life, the commission hopes to tackle such questions as:

—Abolishing police departments "that can't supply full-time police services;"

—Outlawing private ownership of handguns;

—Banning plea bargaining among defendants, prosecutors and judges;

LeDuc said the officials also will decide whether to recommend that state police or "metropolitan area police" take over many of the duties of county sheriff's departments.

An alternative proposal would increase the power of sheriff's departments and free state police from such routine jobs as ticketing traffic offenders, LeDuc said.

The expanded commission replaces a 35-member commission formed in 1969 which almost exclusively spent its time doling out federal money, said Lt. Gov. James Brickley, chairman of both groups.

And, said Brickley, previous studies dwelt on specific criminal justice areas without WASHINGTON (AP) — Shrewd Russian traders bested the United States in the massive 1972 wheat deal but it shouldn't happen again, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz says.

The Russians "were very sharp in their buying practices" in the 440-million-bushel grain deal, Shultz told a news conference Friday.

nearly $1.8 million.

Dr. John Robert Kernodle was named in two federal indictments Friday in connection with his former position as board chairman of the North State Bank of Burlington, N. C.

Kernodle and five other North Carolina businessmen were charged in Winston-Salem, N. C., with misapplication of funds of the bank and conspiracy.

Kernodle, chairman of the AMA board of trustees since June, 1972, was unavailable for comment.

Kernodle and Norman Graham Smith, former president of the bank and a former member of the North Carolina State Banking Commission, were accused of misapplying $506,000 in bank funds for loans for their own interests.

In an 11-count indictment they were charged with making loans "to various individuals and entities," including their wives, which were really for their own benefit.

Kernodle, Smith and two others were charged in a 19-count indictment with conspiring to make loans for their own interests, paying bank funds on checks which had insufficient funds to back them, and defrauding the United States by circumventing government banking regulations.

Also named in that indictment were H. Calloway Pollard Jr., a bank director and an officer and director of Ketteridge Industries Inc. and Marshal Stewart Jr., president of Ketteridge, a clothing distribution firm.

Stewart lives in Raleigh and the others live in Burlington.

The four were charged with paying out more than $137,000 in checks on overdrawn accounts and with issuing $689,000 in unsound loans.

The indictment charged that Stewart issued checks on the account of Ketteridge Industries in the North State Bank "when, as he well knew, the account did not contain sufficient funds to cover the said checks."

The indictment said the alleged conspiracy was active between Jan. 1, 1970, until about June 30, 1972.

In a third indictment, Smith, Houston P. Sharpe of Burlington, a bank director and president of five textile firms, and Charles M. McMillan, treasurer of the five textile firms Sharpe heads, were charged with conspiring to grant $192,475 in unsound loans and pay out $269,258 in bank funds for bad checks.

The maximum penalty on each count of misapplying bank funds is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, and the same penalties apply for each conspiracy count.

Physical Fitness Buffs Capture Beauty Honors

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — You can bet on it: A beautiful young girl will cry tonight. And you also can bet there'll be thousands of sympathetic moist eyes across the nation watching her — Miss America 1974.

The hometown fans were delirious Friday night as Miss New Jersey and Miss Pennsylvania, the two state queens with the largest following here, swept swimsuit and talent honors in the last preliminary round of the Miss America Pageant.

Suzanne Plummer of Wildwood, N.J., became the third blonde to win the swimsuit crown, while the pageant's youngest contestant, Tina Louise Thomas of Lancaster, Pa., captured the talent trophy with a rousing spiritual she feels "God has given me to sing."

Like the four previous preliminary winners, both queens won a $1,000 scholarship. But they will have to wait until tonight to learn whether the judges have chosen them among the 10 finalists who will compete over nationwide television for the title.

Miss Plummer, who displayed her striking 36½-23-36 form in a coral bathing suit, is an elementary education major at American University in Washington.

"I've never been stereotyped as the dizzy blonde — the tomboy blonde maybe," said the 21-year-old hazel-eyed beauty, who added, "I am very athletic."

Miss Thomas, who turned 18 last March 11, said she, too, is a physical-fitness buff. She runs two miles every night and works out with her father's weights and barbells.

She said she "felt like I was praying" as she sang the spiritual, "Take My Hand, Precious Lord."

"I'm very grateful to God. I believe in God, and I prayed tonight that I would win and bring him glory because it was his song," she said. She has won four different talent competitions with the song, about which she added, "I feel that that song is a song God has given me to sing."

Miss Thomas measures 36-24-36.

Whose Ox Is Being Gored Makes The Difference

The Michigan Education Association which is shedding its traditional image of professional concern with education for the American Federation of Teachers' overweening concern for the pocketbook has a backdoor gripe of its own to placate.

Its Services Staff Association, some 120 secretaries, clerks and janitors who operate the MEA's East Lansing headquarters and regional offices, is making noises to strike.

The SSA had a two-year contract with the MEA expiring August 31st.

Contract discussions opening in April have not moved very far, not to the SSA's satisfaction in any event.

The rub between the teachers and their hired hand is the same as that between the former and various school boards.

It's spelled m-o-n-e-y.

The secretaries want the same percentage pay increase the teachers are throwing at the school boards.

Herman Coleman, the MEA's executive secretary, is urging the teachers not to take less than 6 per cent.

He is offering the secretaries 4 per cent.

The office people say their employers should set the same example they are demanding of others.

The MEA's official reply to that comparison implies the office help already is at such a level on pay and fringes as to make 4 per cent equal to the 6 the parent group is shooting at the taxpayers.

If the economic philosophy varies, the negotiating pattern fits within the brinkmanship dynamics of the teachers vs. the school boards.

This is the dallying along on contract discussions from the time school lets out in late spring and then pulling a gun on the employer just before school is scheduled to open.

Around 500,000 kids in Michigan are having an extended vacation because of teacher strikes. Better than a third of this number is in Detroit where the AFT holds sway.

Both teacher unions adopted this coercive action a few years ago.

It banks on anxious parents pressuring the local boards to sign at any cost.

The instant reaction to the secretaries' maneuver is to say they are giving the teachers a dose of the latter's medicine.

Prudence, though, favors a second thought.

Whatever the secretaries shake down the teachers for is sure to inspire the latter to pass along to the school boards which, in turn, can only relay the sad news to the taxpayers.

If You Like To Pay $1 For Cokes, Go To Europe

Twin Cities area industrial executives who regularly fly to and from Europe privately confide they are shocked by the high prices over there. Fifty bucks for a hotel room, $25 for a meal is not uncommon.

Now comes published and detailed confirmation from Yorick Blumenfeld, a widely-read foreign correspondent who spends most of his time in Europe. He's so disenchanted he came home to spend his summer vacation in the United States. He thinks that in comparison with what he left behind, Americans are having it very good, indeed.

Writing from the resort center of Easthampton, N.Y., Blumenfeld says: "The fine, sandy beaches are almost empty here. Any such spot in Europe would be swarming with tourists. And while far more monokinis are to be seen in France, the first few women wearing them here enjoy greater privacy than they would find on the Riviera.

"America offers many simple pleasures unknown in Europe: driving in for a hamburger or a soft-cream cone and eating it in your car. Roasting corn on the cob over an open fire on the beach or crabbing in the shallow bays. Going to a drive-in movie.

"But most of the 1.5 million overseas visitors who came to the United States in the first six months of this year went to the cities rather than the country. In 1972 the United States earned $2.7 billion from foreign tourists, and a 20 per cent increase is forecast for 1973. Devaluation of the dollar makes an American holiday irresistible to many Europeans and Japanese."

So Americans think they've got shortages? It is a laugh, says Blumenfeld:

"Europeans are amused by America's short supply syndrome. Despite all the gripping about lack of steak and insufficient gasoline, the shortages seem more psychological than real. Americans have been accustomed for too long to having a superabundance of everything.

"Steak is much cheaper in the United States than in England. The best Scotch rump costs $2.75 a pound in London — and the butchers there don't even know how to cut a proper T-bone. As for gasoline, it is twice as expensive in England.

"The pound sterling may have been dropping in value in tandem with the dollar, but inflation has been far more severe in England since 1968 than in the United States. English food prices have risen by 41.5 per cent in the past five years, while America's have gone up by 26.6 per cent."

Blumenfeld reports that it's not only the homefolks who are roughing it in Europe. Tourists get an even worse break. "Most Americans sense they are short-changed when they convert their dollars into francs and lire — and they generally are." Besides, "European hospitality is ... on the decline."

Blumenfeld estimates that "prices in France have increased by a third over the past year. A Coca-Cola in most cafes costs $1. Half a dozen oysters cost $5 in Paris last March."

So Blumenfeld's very logical conclusion is that "Coming home to America now seems the cheapest — and most welcome — way to spend a vacation."

Assured of this, we can now all have more fun — and save money, too — just by staying home. If the man who pays can convince the rest of the family, that is.

Is Watergate An Inquisition?

WASHINGTON — In this city, and in the nation, an important though very loose and informal debate is taking place among both the specialists and the citizenry on the Ervin committee Watergate hearings. One side says they are too soft on the Nixon administration, the other sees them as an "inquisition."

The issue deserves to be probed. Before such a debate could develop, it had of course to be decided that there should be hearings in the first place. Forceful argument was advanced that, since Watergate was not in the courts on a broad scale, no other forum was required.

It was fairly quickly, and wisely, decided that both approaches were required. First, it's absurd to argue that if crimes have been committed, a society rooted in law should not be concerned to bring to justice persons against whom evidence is deemed sufficient to warrant indictment.

At the same time, it is clearly the public's business in the broadest sense when so sweeping a matter arises as this, involving as it does an incredible assault upon the whole democratic process by which we choose our highest leaders.

That attack sought not only to undermine the workings of the major opposition party, but to warp to political use such federal executive agencies as the supposedly independent FBI, CIA and Internal Revenue Service.

Now — to the current debate. It is plain beyond all doubt that some public figures and members of the press who brand Senate interrogators as "soft" actually want the hearings to have the effect and impact — if not the form and the safeguards — of a trial. Even as they assert that real trials are not crucial.

What these critics want — and I know for a fact that some are saying it with shocking emotional force in private — is to have key Nixon men who are under suspicion "put in the dock" before the widest audience again and again, hammered at, harassed, stigmatized at possible grave cost to reputations, careers and families, with none of the protections a courtroom normally offers the pettiest thief.

They want punishment meted out in a form they can relish as Romans savored the pain of losing gladiators. Jail, a quickly forgotten place, doesn't do it for them. They want the accused walking around among us, suffering visibly and constantly from public censure, humiliation and embarrassment, bearing penalties inflicted in a loose-framed forum magnified a thousand times by television.

On the other side of the debate, President Nixon himself, some of his accused former aides, and a good many staunch supporters seem to see the Ervin hearings as the very trial by television their critics want it to be but say it is not.

Certainly, if Watergate is wisely seen to be of such magnitude (because of the high reach of its issues and the officials accused of involvement) as to warrant public airing before a Senate committee, then a heavy burden of restraining responsibility falls upon the interrogators.

Bobby Riggs: Avenging Angel

Improbable as it may at first seem, the coming match in the Houston Astrodome between 55-year-old Bobby Riggs and Billie Jean King may well be one of the great sporting events of the decade — more important than any match between Stan Smith and Ilie Nastase, more riveting than the Super Bowl. The measure is simple: more people will watch it.

Riggs vs. Billie Jean in fact is turning out to be rather like one of the classic million-dollar gate heavyweight fights of the past, for like them it has become the focus of powerful social and psychological emotion.

The warmup for this one, Riggs' match against Margaret Court of Australia, was viewed by more people than any previous sporting event — 60 million in four countries, tuned in with the aid of Telstar. In what he now cheerfully calls the "Mother's Day Massacre," little Bobby demolished Mrs. Court, 6-2, 6-1. The Astrodome extravaganza will make the Riggs-Court match look like a casual game at your local club.

The classic heavyweight fights of the past attracted huge gates and national attention not only because of the fighters' skills but because of what the antagonists symbolized.

One skein of great fights dramatized the social rise of the American Irish. John L. Sullivan, the barroom brawler and boozier, was beaten by "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, the polished, handsome, scientific boxer, the early epitome of Irish upward mobility. Finesse (high) defeated brawn (low).

Of course, the racial contest made for great heavyweight drama. Jack Johnson's defeat of the white man Jim Jeffries shocked the white psyche and evoked a whole series of "white hopes," a hope at last fulfilled in 1915 when Jess Willard knocked out Johnson in Havana. And there were multiple meanings to bouts like Joe Louis vs. Max Schmeling, Louis vs. Billy Conn. Furthermore, the great Jewish and Italian fighters meant much to their subcultures.

The Riggs-King match is in this vein. It engages of course the whole battle-of-the-sexes theme, now heated up by an aggressive women's lib movement. Riggs is the avenging angel here, Billie Jean the perfect foil. Riggs is playing on this theme like a boxing maestro of old, billing himself as the "number one male chauvinist pig." But there is much more to it than this.

Riggs, at age 55, comes forward as the apparent victor over that darkest of American bogeys, old age.

$3.2 Million Vote In Coloma Monday

COLOMA — Coloma school district voters will ballot Monday, Sept. 10, on four separate bond issue proposals totalling $3,325,000 for financing new school construction.

The package is made up of three issues defeated by voters June 11, and an issue for financing construction of a new grade school. Cost of the defeated June 11 package was $2.5 million.

Each of the issues is a separate issue and will be approved, or disapproved individually.

Balloting will be held in the Coloma township hall on Paw Paw Lake road from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The issues are $1,790,000 for a gymnasium; $800,000 for the new grade school; $560,000 for a swimming pool and building to house it; and $175,000 for an athletic field.

The gym, swimming pool issue and athletic field proposals were on the June ballot.

If approved the gym would be built between the high school and junior high school. The swimming pool and its building would be made part of the physical education proposal. It is described on the ballot as a natatorium.

The athletic field would be developed at the junior-senior high schools campus just west of a student parking lot.

The new grade school would be constructed on a 20-acre site on Fikes road, two miles north of Riverside, to serve students now in the Pier, Eaman and Clymer school buildings. The Pier, Eaman and Clymer buildings would be closed.

School officials have said the new building is needed because of conditions of the existing buildings and because of transportation requirements. The building would house kindergarten through fourth grade students.

If the issues are approved, the school board has indicated the millage rate would go up to 7.33 mills for debt retirement from its present 6.5 mill level.

According to the officials, the boost would be held to the 7.33 mill level because of financing through the state school bond loan program.

Under the program, funds are loaned to a school district to help repay building bond costs until the district is able to repay the fund without boosting its millage too much over the seven mill mark for debt retirement.

It approved, the district's total millage rate for the year would be 30.706 mills. Each mill equals $1 for each $1,000 of taxable property value.

Ambulance Suit Accord Sought

BY BILL RUSH
Staff Writer

Attorneys are exploring ways of settling out-of-court a suit by Rampart Ambulance Service, Inc., which claims the city of St. Joseph's ambulance ordinance is unconstitutional.

St. Joseph city Attorney A.G. Preston, Jr. and Atty. David Peterson of St. Joseph, legal counsel for Rampart, said the possibility of a settlement arose during a pre-trial conference Friday with Berrien circuit Judge Julian Hughes.

Both attorneys said after the conference that their discussion of a settlement involved a proposal for Rampart to operate on a limited basis in St. Joseph. Peterson said he will meet with his clients Monday to talk about possible avenues of settlement.

Rampart, 2204 South M-139, Benton township, filed suit in May claiming St. Joseph's ambulance ordinance is invalid and asking the court to command issuance of a license because a public need for the plaintiff's service exists.

St. Joseph adopted its ambulance ordinance in January providing that "no person shall own or operate an ambulance within the city without a license." A month later, the city approved a license for Action Ambulance to operate two ambulances in the city, but did not grant a license to Rampart.

In May, Judge Hughes issued an order allowing Rampart to operate temporarily in St. Joseph pending a decision on the constitutionality of the city's ordinance.

The city of St. Joseph subsidizes Action Ambulance with $400 monthly and claims there is only enough business for one ambulance service.

School Officials To Unveil Plans

BY STEVE McQUOWN
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — School officials will unveil here Monday night a long-anticipated recommendation for construction of a school building.

The recommendation will come during a special school board meeting beginning at 7 p.m. at the high school.

Board member Donald Johnson said the recommendation for construction will be part of a report compiled by the board's building and grounds committee during a year-long study.

Johnson, who is chairman of the committee, declined to release in advance any details about the construction proposal to be presented to the board.

A construction proposal of any magnitude, if approved first by the entire school board, would then have to be approved by school district voters in a special election.

Voters have rejected construction proposals on two separate occasions since November, 1971.

But in the year-long study, construction has been among the top alternatives to any expansion or renovation of school buildings, according to board members past and present.

And last month, school officials revealed they have hired an educational consultant to help explain to voters why the district needs a new building.

The consultant, Dr. Donald O. Bush, a professor at Central Michigan university, has been preparing a report on the district in cooperation with the building and grounds committee.

Supt. Norval Bovee yesterday commended the committee for having spent "countless hours personally examining every nook and corner" of the school buildings in preparing a report.

Members of the committee, besides Johnson, are Reynold Oas, Harold Price and Robert Teske.

Teske became a member of the committee following his election to the board in June.

Scheduled For Three Days

Trial May Stretch Into Record

BY BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

What was expected to be a three-day civil trial has burgeoned into probably the longest civil trial in Berrien circuit court history.

It's the $300,000 libel trial by a Michiana Shores man against eight New Buffalo area residents, which finished its 12th day Friday in Judge Ghester J. Byrns' court.

The case was scheduled for three days when it started Aug. 7, but the 13th day is to begin when trial resumes Sept. 18. It's conceivable, court sources say, that an estimated 4 to 6 more days of trial will push the finish perhaps into November because of intervening cases that must be heard.

About a dozen witnesses had appeared in the plaintiff's case through Friday. It's not known how many the defense will call.

The case is Valentine Strykowski versus Republicans Edward Gieger, Mr. and Mrs.

Raymond Valvoda, Mr. and Mrs. George Behrends, Frances Prusa, Mack Kaminski and Harold Wold.

Strykowski, son of former county Democratic chairman James Keller, claims the defendants prepared and distributed a document in 1972 interfering he was the beneficiary of tax favors.

The defendants include a former Berrien county commissioner, former New Buffalo township supervisor and chairman of the United Republicans of Michigan.

JUDGE ANDERSON

OFFICER O'LEARY

Van Buren Judge Raps High Court Sentencing Rule

BY STEVE McQUOWN
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A state supreme court rule which makes previously confidential circuit court pre-sentence reports available to the persons awaiting sentencing and their attorneys has drawn criticism from court officials here. Van Buren Circuit Court Judge David Anderson Jr. said the new rule could turn traditional pre-sentence reports and formal sentencing into "second trials" in cases where defendants challenge information in the reports.

"I'm not happy with the new rule at all," said Anderson, 64, who has been a circuit court judge since 1959.

Probation Officer John O'Leary of Paw Paw said the new rule is going to make it necessary for him to limit the type of information he includes in his reports to Judge Anderson.

All in all, they said, it could mean further delays in the criminal justice procedures and be detrimental to the public, and in some cases, to defendants.

The change was ordered so that questionable information did not go unchallenged before a judge imposed sentence.

Judge Anderson said he doesn't like the idea of having less information on which to base a sentence. "You have to have a complete picture of the man before you sentence him," the judge said.

The judge also indicated he was considering imposing a local rule which would require attorneys to file written challenges to information in a pre-sentence report within 10 days of receiving it.

The burden of validating any disputed information, Judge Anderson said, would be up to the defendant.

The pre-sentence report is mandatory before any person convicted of a felony is sentenced. Until the Sept. 1 supreme court ruling, it was a confidential report usually seen only by O'Leary and the judge.

Previously, said O'Leary, such reports contained statements and information from the defendant, family members, employers, police agencies and friends and acquaintances of the defendant.

All of this, along with past records of convictions and arrests, combined to form the basis for an O'Leary recommendation on whether the defendant should receive probation or a prison term.

Now persons who "went out on a limb" to provide information may not cooperate if they know what they provide is going to be seen by a possibly vengeful defendant.

O'Leary, 39, who has been a probation officer for 12 years, the last eight in Van Buren county, said the new rule exposes probation officers to cross-examination, forced disclosure of confidential informants, and might leave probation officers open to slander suits and threats.

Further, O'Leary added, if a defendant knows of a probation officer's recommendations, it may destroy any chance the officer had of being a counselor to a defendant put on probation.

Under such circumstances, O'Leary said, he will no longer include confidential information which could reflect on a defendant's habits and attitude towards the law.

Such information, O'Leary said, was sometimes the deciding factor on whether a man went to prison or was put on probation.

Lawrence To Decide $695,000 Question

LAWRENCE — Lawrence school district residents will vote Monday, on a $695,000 bond issue for school construction and site acquisition and development.

Proposed for construction are an addition to Lawrence elementary school, a bus maintenance garage and a balcony in the high school gymnasium.

According to school officials, repayment of the bond issue under the state school bond loan program will mean a debt retirement property tax rate of between 7 and 7.2 mills over the next 30 years.

The state loan program provides that the state lend money to the school district to help cover bond repayment during the first years of the bond repayment period.

With projected increases in the district's property valuation over the years, the fixed 7 to 7.2 mill debt retirement levy is eventually expected to cover bond repayment and money owed the state, according to Supt. Lesley Harding.

Of the $695,000, the superintendent said $510,000 will go toward the elementary addition, $24,000 for the bus maintenance garage, $34,000 for site acquisition and development, $65,000 for construction of the gym balcony, and $62,000 for equipment, legal and architectural fees and other costs.

The elementary addition is to include four classrooms, a library, an audio-visual room, an all purpose room-gymnasium, locker rooms and other facilities. Included in the $510,000, Harding said, is installation of new lighting and a new heating system throughout building.

The gym balcony will be built at the north end of the gym over existing locker rooms and corridor space, and will be used as a space for gymnastics and other activities, Harding said.

Site of the proposed bus garage has not been determined, according to school officials.

The elementary addition is needed, Harding said, because of expanding enrollment. He noted that enrollment has increased from 561 students in the district in 1956 to 885 in 1972.

He said the entire second floor of old high school, currently serving as a junior high, has been converted to elementary classrooms.

The elementary addition would permit location of all elementary classes in one building, he said.

Lawrence school district owes 28.08 mills on property including 21.58 mills for operation and 6.5 for debt retirement. Passage of the bond issue proposal would increase the rate to 28.78, Harding said.

The district's state equalized valuation is about $9.8 million, he said.

Polls Monday will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the high school library.

Shifting Lumber Kills Niles Man

NILES — Robert E. Wimmer, 53, of 20510 Mayflower road, Niles, was killed Thursday when lumber shifted and crushed him while he was unloading a box car in South Bend.

The accident occurred at Mohawk Flush Doors Inc., South Bend, where Wimmer was employed as a fork-lift truck operator.

According to a company spokesman, a stack of lumber tumbled against a bulkhead in the freight car, causing the bulkhead to give way and pin the victim between it and another bulkhead.

Death was ruled a result of a crushed chest by Dr. Louis Grwinski, deputy coroner.

Mr. Wimmer was a member of the Buchanan Church of Christ, Niles.

Surviving are a son James of Niles; three daughters, Mrs. Larry Murphy, Mrs. Robert Haack and Miss Cindy Wimmer, all of Michigan City, Ind.; his father, Zelden Wimmer of Kokomo, Ind.; his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dale Hanover Sr., of Buchanan; three half-brothers, Robert Wimmer of Kokomo, Ind., Raymond and Arthur Preston of Buchanan; four foster-brothers, Dale Hanover Jr., of Buchanan, Robert Hanover of Niles, John Hanover of Pomona, Calif., and Gene Hanover of Buchanan; a half-sister, Mrs. Louise Brumley of Windfall, Ind., and a foster sister, Mrs. Nancy Thompson of Buchanan.

Woman Is Found Dead In Her Car

COLOMA — A 33-year-old South Haven woman was found dead last night in a car parked in a wooded area off a rural Coloma township road.

Township police identified the woman as Mrs. Marvin (Freda Jean) Decker, route 5, box 392, Sixth avenue, South Haven. She was the mother of four children.

Investigating officers reported that an autopsy performed last night by Dr. Richard Linsinger, deputy medical examiner, did not immediately pin point cause of death. Results of further tests are awaited, police said.

Police said there was no evidence immediately found at the scene to indicate foul play. Coloma township police Sgt. James Swisher and officer Richard Klimaszewski reported finding the body at 8:07 p.m. in a car parked about 45 feet off County Line road, a quarter mile west of Coloma North road.

State police from Benton Harbor, who assisted township police with the initial investigation, said Mrs. Decker is believed to have died between 2 a.m. and 9 a.m. Friday morning.

South Haven city police said her husband reported at 7:24 p.m. last night that she had been missing since 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete this morning at Calvin Funeral home, South Haven.

$10 Million Water Leak

COVERT — The Palisades Nuclear Power plant will remain out of service for approximately three more months while Consumers Power company conducts extensive tests and cleaning of the steam generating system.

In the meantime, the company expects to make up for the power loss by increasing its output at other company facilities and will purchase power from other utilities. This is expected to add $10 million to the company's electric generating expenses.

The plant was taken out of service Aug. 11 after monitoring devices detected a tiny leak of radioactive water from the primary to the secondary side of one steam generator. The malfunction is similar to one that occurred at the Palisades' plant earlier this year.

At that time, a number of steam generator tubes were plugged to take them out of service. R.C. Youngdahl, senior vice president for electric operations, said approximately 16,000 tubes in the two steam generators would be given eddy currents to determine if any metal erosion exists that might require additional tube plugging. He said the plant has approximately 20 per cent overcapacity in its steam generator so elimination of some tubes will have no effect on the electric generating capacity of the plant itself. The facility has a generating capacity of 700,000 kilowatts.

Youngdahl pointed out that metal erosion problems are non-nuclear in nature and that the problem has shown up in steam generators elsewhere.

He said work on the steam generator would require about three months to complete and it is hoped the facility will return to service by early December in time to help meet winter peak demands.

$3.99 Million School Issue

Tenth Try For Bangor

BANGOR — A $3,995,000 bond issue proposal to finance school construction will be voted on by Bangor school district residents Monday.

The bonding proposition is the tenth put before voters by the Bangor school board since 1968. The nine previous attempts were rejected, the last in November, 1972.

The latest proposition seeks voter approval for construction of a new middle school for grades six through eight, and a new elementary school for kindergarten through second grade.

Polls will be open Monday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in Bangor middle school.

As proposed by the school board, the new middle school would be built on property adjacent to the high school on Arlington street. The new elementary building has been proposed for the site of the present middle school, all of which would be demolished except the gymnasium.

According to Supt. Howard Beyer, repayment of the $3,995,000 bond issue over 30 years would increase the district's bonded indebtedness tax rate from its present 6.6 mill level to a maximum of eight mills.

The size of the increase would be kept down, he said, by Bangor's participation in the Michigan school bond loan program. Under the program, Beyer said, the state would loan the district funds needed for repayment above the amount raised by the eight mills, the ceiling set in the loan agreement.

With projected increases in the district's property valuation and complete repayment of existing debts, the eight-mill rate would eventually cover the bond issue retirement and money owed the state, Beyer stated.

He said without the state loan program the proposed bond issue would add about 12 mills to the district's tax rate during the first year, with the rate decreasing in subsequent years as the property valuation increases, Beyer said.

Increasing the debt retirement levy to eight mills would increase the district's overall levy for schools to 28.85 mills, the superintendent reported.

The district's present state equalized property valuation is just over $22.2 million.

The proposed bond issue would include $2,448,000 for the new middle school, $835,490 for the new elementary school, $230,000 for equipment, $268,000 for site development including play areas and athletic fields, and $213,000 for planning, legal fees and bond qualification.

The middle school plan includes construction of a gymnasium to be shared with the high school. The new building would have about 25 classrooms, according to school officials.

The new elementary building is proposed to have 18 classrooms.

Currently, children in fifth and sixth grades and in high school attend school on split shifts and some elementary classes are held in portable buildings.

Must Doctors' Ethics Change?
Some Mind-Boggling Questions
From Medicine's Brave New World

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR DON SHULA, Miami Dolphins football coach
What are the main ingredients for your successful coaching in the National Football League?—Richard Boye, Elkart Lake, Wis.

● I'm just a guy who rolls up his sleeves and goes to work. I don't have peace of mind until I know I've given the game everything I can, because the whole idea is to get an edge somehow. Sometimes it takes just a little extra something to get that edge. I try to do it with mental and physical preparation. Of course, I know that the people we play have the same goal—winning—so I try to put more effort into our preparation than they do into theirs. You set a goal to be the best, then work hard to reach that goal. If you let yourself settle for anything less than No. 1, you're cheating yourself.

FOR SHIRLEY JONES, actress

I hear that you are going to add a new member to your television "Fartridge Family." True?—Cynthia Easton, Hillsborough, Calif.

● Yes. Four-year-old Ricky Segall will play the son of our next-door neighbors. He likes to visit the family because he feels free to "sing my little heart out." He will sing a solo in each episode.

FOR BOBBY RIGGS, tennis star

At first I thought your bit about beating the leading female professional stars was just a way to pick up money and publicity. Now I hear talk from the ladies about making a victory over you a "cause." Do you have a cause yourself?—John Collins, Atlantic City, N.J.

● Yes. I personally believe women should stay home and do kitchen work. I'm going to put these women back where they belong.

FOR ALICE COOPER, rock singer

Who created your image?—Sandy Henley, Hobart, Ind.

● I know it's not my father, who is an engineer and ordained minister in Phoenix, Ariz., because he's often said, "It is quite a shock when you expect to sire a gospel missionary and instead you get a rebel rock star." On the other hand, my father's first name is Esther—so who knows?

FOR ANITA LOOS, author

You have done well writing books like "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," in which beautiful but "dumb" women get the better of rich and "smart" men. Do you believe that women are smarter than men?—Mrs. R. F. Hunt, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● It's true that women are brainier than men, but we should keep this fact quiet because it could ruin our whole racket.

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, pro football star

How do you feel about the proposal to give urinalysis tests to players in order to detect use of drugs?—John Morrissey, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I'm against it. I don't take "bennies" or anything else, but I don't like anyone forcing me to take a test. I'm a human being. Urine tests are okay for cows or horses, but I am not an animal. I spend a lot of time going all over the country talking about the evils of drugs. Now the league officials just about make me and every other NFL player a suspect.

FOR SID CAESAR

As far as you know, did any of your comedy material ever offend anyone?—M. T. T., Garrison, N.Y.

● I once portrayed a musician who wore funny clothes and thick glasses. I got a letter from a woman in Baltimore who worked in a clinic for children with poor eyesight. She said the character made the children feel self-conscious—so I changed it. I would never consciously offend anyone.

FOR GARY PLAYER, South African golfer

Another pro golfer from a foreign country has stated that the U.S. Open championship does not mean much to foreign golfers. Is this true?—Frank Allen, Green Bay, Wis.

● No. If you gave me my choice of $1 million or a U.S. National Open championship, I would take the Open.

FOR CYBILL SHEPHERD, actress

Do you go to see your own movies?—H. H. M., Wamac, Ill.

● No. I never even see daily takes while I'm making a movie, because I want to be as natural as possible. I would rather act intuitively than methodically, and not be dependent on specific directing. I think it's sad that the great Marilyn Monroe needed her drama coach to the end.

FOR SEN. ROMAN L. HRUSKA (R-Neb.)

With gasoline supplies so tight, can't a substitute be found?—B. H., North Platte, Neb.

● Several years ago, the state of Nebraska experimented on something called "gasohol." It explored the utilization of alcohol distilled from grain and blended on a basis of ten percent alcohol to 90 percent gasoline. It was found that this mix can be successfully burned in any existing automobiles. Now seems an ideal time to explore the possibility of developing this resource.

Doctors' Ethics in Upheaval:

Tough Questions from the Brave New World of Medicine

By Bruce Hilton

Ten years ago, life was simpler. So was the medical profession. The lines between life and death, right and wrong, were relatively clear and unquestioned.

This is no longer the case.

For two years I was a senior staff member of the Hastings Center, based in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. The Center brings together scientists and physicians with lawyers, philosophers and others to examine the ethical dilemmas arising from the "biomedical revolution." Below are just a few of the hundreds of knotty problems the Center has studied, and which doctors are encountering every day (names and details have been changed to protect anonymity). Most of these cases would not have come up ten years ago. None of them has an easy answer, but each *demand*s an answer. Judge for yourself. You're the doctor. What would your answers be?

THE FETUS THAT WAS A BABY

Mrs. L., a mother with five children, had come to a major big-city hospital for a therapeutic abortion. The child, she said, had been unplanned and was unwanted.

The operation was normal right up to the time Dr. B., the young physician on duty, realized that he was holding not an inert fetus, but a living, breathing premature baby.

What should he do? Placed quickly in an incubator, the baby would undoubtedly survive. Left alone, it would die. And there was no senior physician on duty to ask.

Looking much more calm than he

The author, Bruce Hilton, is now director of the National Center for Bio-Ethics a nonprofit organization whose role is to foster public awareness of ethical and social problems arising out of the "new biology."

"When the doctor came back, he saw to his relief that the baby was no longer breathing. The next morning he called the Hastings Center to ask, 'What do you think I should have done?'"

"She said nothing after the first experience of being strapped to the table, given a sedative, and jolted into a convulsion by the shock. But two days later she rebelled. 'That was torture!' she screamed. 'I won't let you touch me again!'" really was, Dr. B. saw to the mother's needs, had the baby placed in a bassinet, and went to the cafeteria "for a smoke and time to think it over."

When he came back, he saw to his relief that the baby was no longer breathing.

The next morning he called the Hastings Center to ask, "What do you think I should have done?"

While the Center doesn't function as a counseling group, the staff did come up with these questions that might be part of the decision:

How much importance should be given to the mother's intent? To her ability to raise the child? To the rights of the child to life? To the rights of the brothers and sisters?

What about the possibility that the saline solution used to start the abortion could have caused brain damage in the baby?

And who should have made the decision anyway? Should the mother have been consulted?

The discussion produced no easy answer. But the staff, now at least, had some of the questions that would help them make such decisions in the future.

FORCIBLE SHOCK THERAPY

Mrs. F. had become deeply despondent and quarrelsome after her husband's death, and wasn't being helped by her psychiatrist.

She signed herself into the psychiatric ward of a private hospital for shock therapy. She had to sign a consent form before submitting to the treatment.

She said nothing after the first experience of being strapped to the table, given a sedative, and jolted into a convulsion by the shock. But two days later she rebelled. "That was torture!" she screamed. "I won't let you touch me again!"

The psychiatrist used every means to get her to continue. But she remained firm in her refusal, and only the locked door kept her from running away.

The staff met, and the majority decided to continue treatment. Kicking and screaming, Mrs. F. was carried back into the treatment room.

Later, in Center discussions, a psychiatric nurse argued that the full course of treatment was necessary for success, and that to stop before it was over could leave the patient in worse condition than before.

Once Mrs. F. signed the agreement, it was argued, she became the responsibility of the hospital staff, who had to do what was best for her own good. She could not withdraw consent—especially since her change of mind might be a symptom of her disease.

On the other hand, a physician-attorney argued, forcible treatment should be used only for a patient judged by a court to be unable to choose for himself—that is, one who's been legally committed. To force a voluntary patient like Mrs. F. to undergo treatment she doesn't want is clearly a violation of her rights, he said.

BUYING "DISCOUNT" BLOOD

With the growing need for blood in this country, a commercial firm found a profitable business: importing 10,000 liters of blood plasma each month from Haiti. Poorer citizens there could make as much as $182 a year selling blood.

Is such commerce ethical? Those who defended the practice pointed out that the money was helping the local economy to the tune of some half-million dollars a year, and putting food on the tables of many who might have gone hungry. It also brought badly needed plasma to the U.S.

Critics argued that the practice demeaned the donors and threatened their health, and that it eased the pressure to develop a better blood exchange system within the U.S. The extraordinary poverty of the Haitians meant they did not have the freedom to say no; any offer was one they couldn't refuse.

Finally, critics suggested, making blood a salable and importable commodity opened the door for an international commercial traffic in kidneys and hearts.

The question became moot when the man who arranged the deal fell out of favor with the Haitian regime, and the company lost its contract. But it—or a similar venture—will surely pop up elsewhere.

IT'S A GIRL—ABORTION FOR SEX REASONS

Mrs. S., the 38-year-old mother of a boy and two girls, told her physician she feared her child might have Down's syndrome—mongolism, which is more common among children of mothers over 35. She asked for a relatively new test called amniocentesis, which reveals the child's condition—and its sex.

Dr. L., using a needle through the abdominal wall, drew out some of the fluid surrounding the fetus, and examined the chromosomes.

"There's good news," he told Mrs. S. "Your baby won't be mongoloid."

"But what sex is it?" she asked. And when she learned the baby would be a girl—she asked for an abortion.

Shocked, the doctor discovered from Mrs. S. and her husband that their real concern all along had been the desire to have another boy!

Aside from the ethical question of the lie to the doctor, other questions arise:

Is sex determination alone a sufficient reason for undergoing the amniocentesis—a relatively safe procedure, but which carries a risk of one to two percent for the fetus? And in a male-dominated society, what would be the effect on the boy-girl ratio if parents could select?

Assuming there are some genetic diseases so severe that early detection and abortion would be morally acceptable, just what is a genetic "defect"? Is being an unwanted gender a defect? Is conceiving a child with the intent of destroying it if it's the wrong sex any different from infanticide?

On the positive side, it has been argued that being able to select the sex of one's child, even by such a drastic measure, would help slow the population boom, since many "extra" babies come from attempts to beget a child of the desired sex. And those who favor free abortion for any and all reasons suggest sex determination is as good a reason as any.

IS YOUR BABY A CRIMINAL?

This time it was the physician who was tempted to lie. Mrs. R. was another older mother who wanted to rule out the possibility that her baby had Down's syndrome, and the tests indeed showed the fetus to be unaffected.

But the examination did turn up an extra "Y" chromosome in the baby's cells—and there is evidence that such "XYY males" may be somewhat more prone to crimes of violence than the general population.

The physician's dilemma was this: Should he tell Mrs. R.?

On the "no" side, he argued with himself that she had not asked him to check for the XYY syndrome—only for mongolism. And what would it do to the way she reared her son if she knew? Would she panic each time he threw a temper tantrum? Would she overprotect him, or damage him psychologically with her nervousness?

On the "yes" side was the trust the patient places in her physician, and his obligation to honor it. And, he asked, doesn't a patient have an inherent right to know the whole truth, even if it hurts? And, pragmatically: If the boy one day was one of that small minority of XYY males who end up behind bars, could the parents sue the physician for withholding the truth?

"Mark Spitz, You're 23— What Do You Do for a Living?"

Now, you can slow down... and reverse... the aging process of your face!

Now as you grow older... your skin can begin to look and feel younger!

AT LAST, Dr. Benjamin S. Frank, an American medical doctor, has actually discovered how to make the human body respond to certain essential, life-giving nutrients... natural life-giving factors that actually signal your living cells to rejuvenate themselves, and reverse the aging process in the skin of your face!

This fantastic discovery, amazing as it is, was not enough. This brilliant scientist was able to incorporate these essential factors into a HIGHLY SECRET AND COMPLEX CREAM... A CREAM WHICH HE NOW CALLS... "LIFE-ESSENCE-FORMULA 1!"

15 YEARS OF EXPERIMENTING...
OVER 500 PATIENTS!

Although new to the general public, LIFE-ESSENCE-FORMULA 1 is a product of years of laboratory research. During these clinical experiments, this doctor has been able to prove that it is possible to help the body renew itself and slow the aging process. The most striking effects shown were on the skin of the face... the following changes were actually produced by LIFE-ESSENCE-FORMULA 1. Now you can see these amazing changes on your face:

- Wrinkles reduced noticeably... by about 50%.
- Eye-bags noticeably reduced... skin regains natural tone.
- Pore size is reduced.
- Flattens and smooths out acne scars.
- Skin lifts, becomes tighter, yet softer.
- Whiteheads and blackheads loosen and are easily removed.
- Reduces and helps prevent "sun and weather" wrinkles.
- Helps round out face with an oval contour, overcoming "drawn" look.
- Normalizes skin texture and appearance.
- Forehead and frown wrinkles decrease in depth.

DR. BENJAMIN S. FRANK PRESENTS
LIFE-ESSENCE-FORMULA 1... HIS ANSWER TO WRINKLES...
EYE-BAGS... DEEP LINES...
AND SAGGING SKIN!

Now you can tighten sagging skin, smooth out eyebags, reduce and tighten frown line and help firm up aging throat... all without surgery. Now, for the first time ever, you can remove and keep years from your appearance, achieve a more youthful, practically wrinkle free complexion, healthier... smoother... softer and younger than you ever dreamed possible... without the use of harsh cover-ups, temporary gimmicks, or costly surgery.

TWO OF THE LEADING HEALTH MAGAZINES REPORT ON THE PRINCIPLE... AND THE SCIENTIST!

An American medical doctor who has specialized in inhibiting or slowing down the aging process in human beings, has recently made amazing strides in this direction. Two of the leading health magazines in the world have found his work so important, that they have both reported on some of his successful discoveries... both reveal that the most striking effects were observed on the skin of the face!

LOOK AT THESE DRAMATIC BEFORE AND AFTER PHOTOGRAPHS!

The camera never lies... as these completely un-retouched pictures, taken in tests performed by one of the World's Leading Health Magazines, definitely prove LIFE-ESSENCE-FORMULA 1 does all we claim it will do...

The Photos you see here are the result of an impartial, successful test, conducted by one of the leading health magazines.

SUBJECT A Picture 1, was taken before any treatment had begun. Picture 2, after only three weeks of treatment... Skin has smoothed out, wrinkles are shallow, shorter and less apparent, overall skin tone is more resilient and youthful.

Mark poses with his bride, Susan. They met because their fathers were in scrap iron.

"Sometimes it gets embarrassing. People will come up and say, 'Are you really Mark Spitz?' Sometimes it also gets funny. I get offered an awful lot of free glasses of milk!"

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

We talked in the office of his publicist, Jay Bernstein, one of the multitude of people who currently surround swimmer-turned-endorser/ hopes-to-be-actor Mark Spitz. He wore blue jeans, a white-and-blue plaid shirt and tennis shoes. To my surprise, he did not insist upon his publicist's attending the interview. When I'd met Mark at a previous press conference, he was surrounded by so many advisers, I had wondered if he had a mind of his own.

FAMILY WEEKLY: You seem to have made a career of becoming an endorser. Do you mind not having a profession?

MARK: Being an endorser is a profession. Whatever I do sells products. It's a basis of our society—to appeal to the public. After all, look at the cigarettes. They use a lot of beautiful women because they appeal to men who might smoke cigarettes.

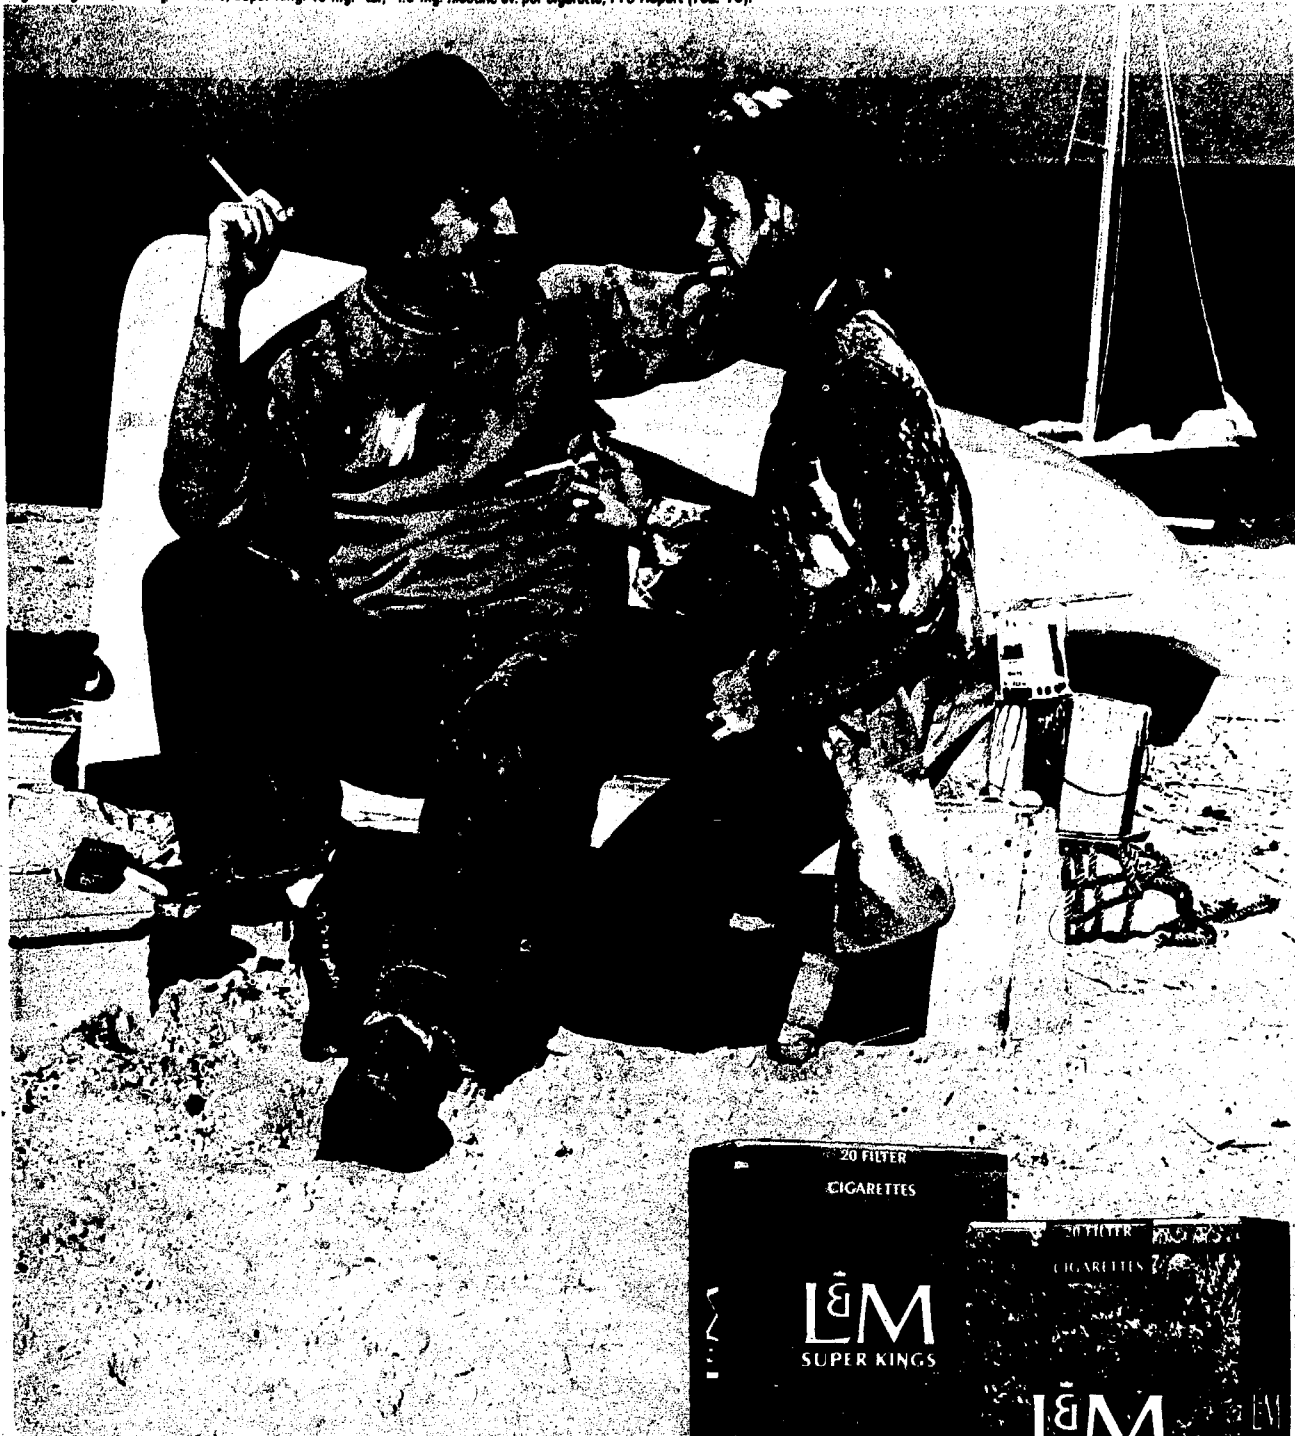

FW: Then you don't mind being just an endorser?

MARK: Why should I? A lot of people like Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer do it as well. They cash in on what they're good at.

FW: But they don't spend all of their time endorsing. They play a pretty good game of golf on the side.

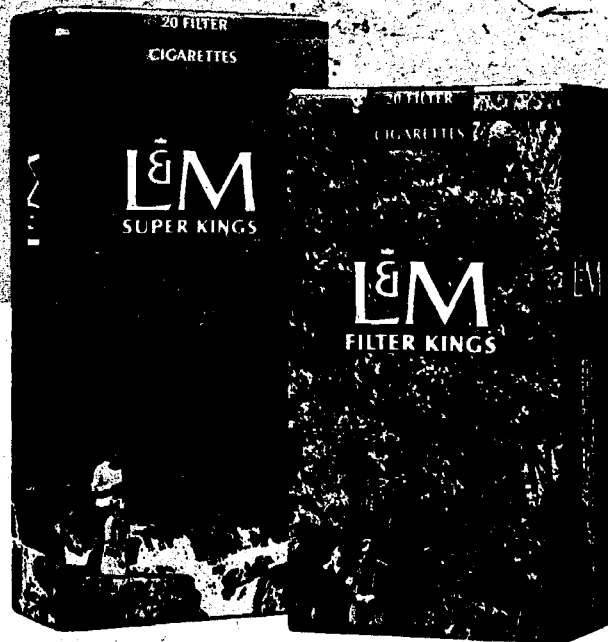

MARK: That's true, but they can't afford to live the way they do from what they earn, like $20,000 a game—something like that. That's why they are endorsers. They don't mind making a buck by endorsing things.

FW: Just how many products do you endorse?

MARK: I've signed contracts with seven corporations and am discussing other deals but it is too early to talk about them.

FW: What do you actually do besides give your name?

MARK: I help coordinate the products I endorse. I inject my opinions. I wouldn't endorse anything I didn't thoroughly believe in. People like to believe in something, follow someone, identify. That's why I think I work out as an endorser. Young people want to identify with me.

FW: I understand you were offered a lot of acting roles. Have you settled on a film yet?

MARK: No. We are in the process of making a presentation of my first movie to the public. It takes 100 percent effort to get it going.

FW: What does it depend on?

MARK: Money. We have to find someone who will finance it.

FW: What kind of a part will you play in the film?

MARK: A young man—me.

FW: You mean a swimmer?

MARK: No, because people expect me to be a swimmer.

FW: If you feel people won't accept you in an entirely different role, what can you do?

MARK: I expect to play a character who is athletic and extremely motivated to win.

FW: I've heard various stories how you met your wife. What's the true one?

MARK: Well—I initiated it, but indirectly it was through our fathers that we got together. Both of our parents are in scrap iron. At least, mine used to be—he's now working for me...

I mean, he's now working with me. The two men had a mutual friend and he had dinner with us one night and told me that if I ever came to Los Angeles, I should look up Herman Weiner's beautiful daughter. I looked her up, and that's how we became acquainted.

FW: In films, the director guides the actor; in acting school the drama coach does it. Isn't that just about the same as a swimming coach telling a swimmer what to do?

MARK: No one told me what to do for the last six years. I was just pampered.

FW: What did the coach do for you?

MARK: He was someone I could talk to. The workout I could do myself.

FW: But you think coaches are necessary?

MARK: They are—even after I became a successful champion swimmer I had to have one. It's a psychological necessity to have someone to talk to, to get psyched up. He provides a sounding board.

FW: What about Munich?

MARK: What about Munich!

FW: Why did you leave so hurriedly?

MARK: I didn't run away from any threats. I was already three and a half weeks late for dental school, and I couldn't wait around any longer. If I had stayed to the end of the second week of the Olympics, I would have had to take off a year.

FW: Was your life ever actually threatened?

MARK: No. If they had wanted to get me they could have and would have. Besides, if I would have stayed on in Munich, what could I have done?

FW: You had only one semester of dental school. What made you decide to give up dentistry?

MARK: When I got hepatitis early this year. It gave me time to think, and I figured with all the endorsements I'm giving, I would have no time for school or to practice oral surgery when I graduated. Besides, I like to win. I didn't want to be just another person doing a job. I like to be the best at whatever I am doing.

FW: Why did you pick oral surgery in the first place?

MARK: Because I love to work with my hands. I love to do mechanical things. Swimming, in a way, is a mechanical effort.

FW: What does financial success mean to you?

MARK: To be my own boss, to do what I want to do, to take time off as I want to.

FW: But what is it you want with the money? Couldn't you have made enough as an oral surgeon?

MARK: I looked into that too when I got started. The average doctor makes between $15,000 and $20,000 a year. Very few make over $100,000.

FW: What kind of a car do you have now?

MARK: A Mercedes 450.

FW: And your bride?

MARK: She has the same car.

FW: Do you like all the attention you get?

MARK: Sometimes it gets embarrassing. People will come up and say, "Are you really Mark Spitz?" Sometimes it also gets funny. I get offered an awful lot of free glasses of milk!

FW: Where do you think you got hepatitis?

MARK: I am told I may have caught it at the Olympic Games in Munich. I was in such great shape, it took that long to catch up with me.

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya takes you on a beauty safari starring two young Americans. "One reward in this business," she says, "is to see how a change of appearance can affect a girl's personality. Gay and Dianne went to Europe as teenagers. When they came back, they had blossomed into women!"

The last thing Dianne Risius ever thought she had was an exquisite set of cheekbones! Her new beauty asset emerged after an exciting one-day make-over session in London that included cosmetic and hairstyle transformations.

Dianne, who lives in Bricelyn, Minn. (she gets FAMILY WEEKLY in the Albert Lea Tribune), was one of the three finalists in the annual coast-to-coast hairstyling contest sponsored by John H. Breck, Inc. As a finalist she was given a trip to Europe in addition to a college scholarship. Here's how Dianne's exclusive make-over began:

The first stop on her beauty safari was the Michaeljohn salon, a young "with-it" establishment known for the elegant heads it turns out, from Princess Anne to Elizabeth Taylor.

Enter Dianne, whose hair is immediately swooped up and away from her face to the cry, "Look what it does for her cheekbones and how it adds height!" The Michaeljohn philosophy "that a woman doesn't start from the neck up, that you can't isolate the head, but must look at the whole shape" was beginning to take root. There remained one problem. Since a good cut is what any top hairdresser recommends and the trend is toward short, manageable hair, the stylist began sharpening his scissors. But Dianne wasn't having any of that. Because of contest obligations in which her own hairdo design was still to be judged by a London jury, there could be no haircut. So the salon gave Dianne the short tousled look that seems so right for her. It was accomplished with tiny rollers, a brushout, then curls pinned all over her head.

Next, on to Yardley of London, where cosmetic expert Sue Priston analyzed Dianne's facial features. Prescription: Accentuate her eyes and cheekbones, shape her eyebrows and lengthen her upper-lip line, which tends to curve down. The primary step: "Start with an absolutely clean face." Skin freshener was applied to remove traces of oil or grime, then a light moisturizer to replenish the skin. (Dianne's skin tends to be normal-to-oily. For dry skin, a cream would be applied instead.) Because Dianne's skin is evenly textured, no makeup base was needed. Her eyebrows, a bit too thick, were plucked and given more of an arch. (A tip: Eyebrows should only be plucked from under the brow, never above, or the natural guideline is lost. The result could be a mismatched set.) To keep Dianne's total look very natural, her lips were first covered with a brown-shaded lipstick, then highlighted with a peach color. Her upper-lip line was extended to balance her fuller bottom lip.

To bring out her cheekbones, a tawny cream rouge was blended in a circular motion out toward her hairline. An apricot eyeshadow was used on her eyelids; a medium-brown was applied in the crease to add depth, and a soft white highlighter was used on the brow bone. No dark liner was used, but Dianne's eyelids were polished off with a pearl-beige cream applied close to the upper lash line, to give sparkle. Upper and lower lashes were treated with a coat of mascara.

A Californian in Paris

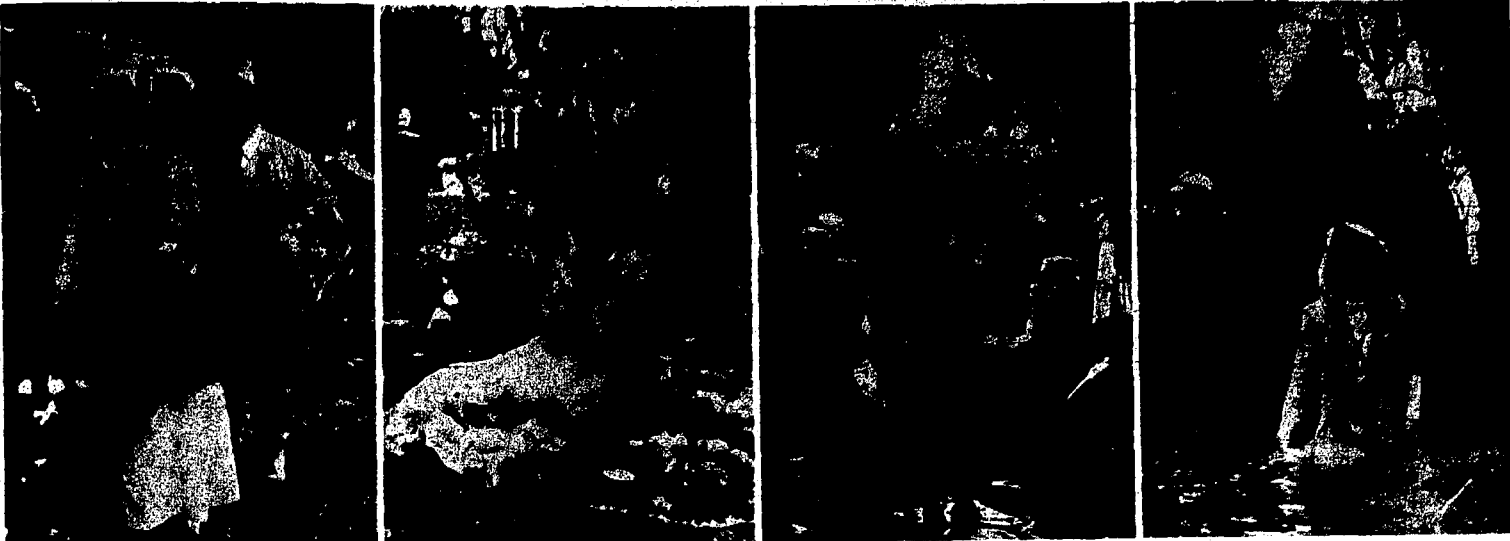

Gay Dixon "before" and "after" her beauty make-over at famed Carita of Paris.

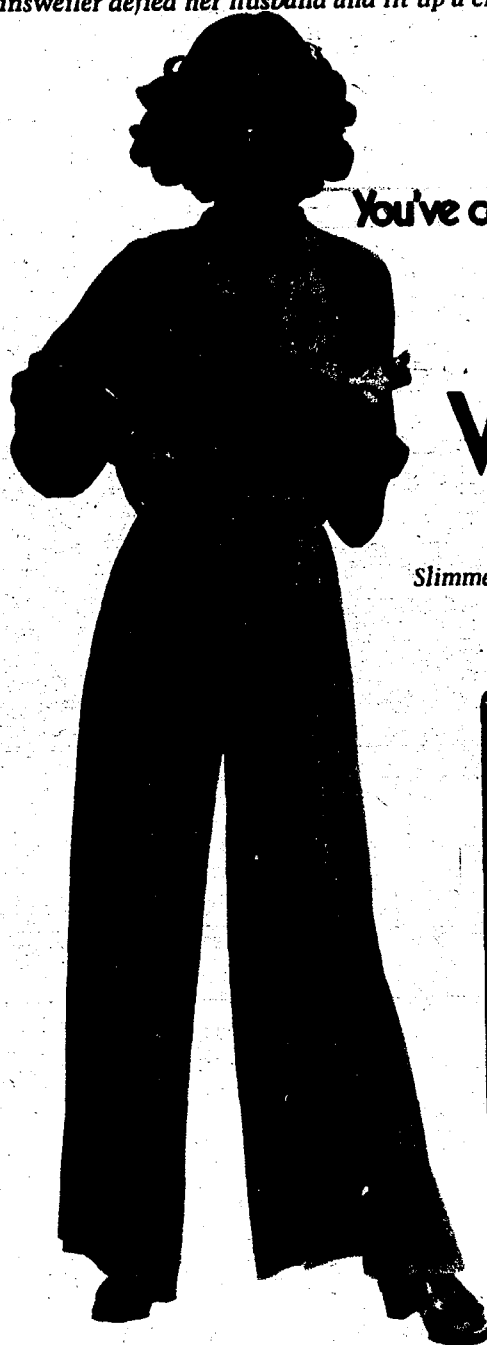

Gay Dixon of Lakewood, Calif., who was the winner of the Breck hair-styling competition as judged by a panel of prominent Londoners, had her beauty make-over in the chic French capital—where the smartest heads are sporting short hair and smoky, mysterious eyes. Gay's hairdo was changed to reflect a more sophisticated look and frame her face flatteringly. One side was parted, the other combed in a thirties-like wave caught up with a barrette. (Her hair, naturally curly, has to be straightened every three months.) Gay's cosmetic change was twofold: Her eyes, which have a distinctly round contour, had dark-blue liner applied at the base of the upper and lower lashes and extending slightly at the edge of eyes, to create an almond shape. Gay's full lips were de-emphasized by redrawing a thinner lip line with a coloring pencil, then filled in with tinted lip gloss.

Blend Your Own Beauty Recipes

Blend your own dry-hair conditioner with a mix of safflower oil, egg, avocado and lemon.

Today, with products from the supermarket, pharmacy, or garden, you can create natural beauty aids right in your own home, using a wire whisk, egg beater, hand mixer, or a blender, as we did.

But you won't be the first to devise your own beauty treatments. Cosmetic art, supposed to have started with the Egyptians about 5000 B.C., was the result of mixing natural ingredients. Queen Nefertiti designed her own foundation cream: a mixture of white lead, chalk powder, perfume and honey. During Cleopatra's day, wealthy women used overnight beauty masks made of honey, barley flour and narcissus balm, rinsed off the next morning with almond oil. Later in France, to prove their "blue blood," members of royalty painted the veins of their temples bright blue. They whitened their skins with creams of vanilla, cacao and almond paste.

Here are some simple beauty recipes you can whip up:

Apple-Yogurt Mask

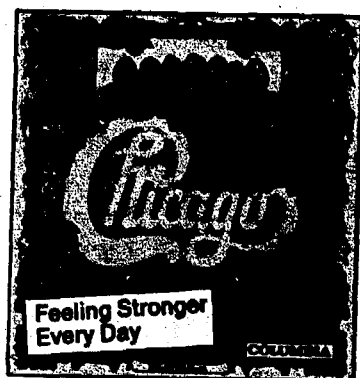

1 large apple
6 tablespoons yogurt

Peel and core apple. Chop fine and mash, or slice into wedges and place in a blender. Set blender for high speed, and switch on and off until well blended. Add yogurt. Beat with a fork, use a hand mixer, or blend at medium speed, until

Lamb Shanks With Noodles

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen prepares a family dinner of economical lamb shanks. "Lamb shanks are one of the best meat buys in the country right now," says Marilyn, "yet I often hear from women that they don't know how to use them. This tangy lemon-flavored recipe is just right for a cool fall day."

*Recipe given

LEMONY LAMB SHANKS WITH NOODLES

2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves
4-6 lamb shanks (1-1 1/2 lbs. each)*
2-3 tablespoons flour
3-4 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup thinly sliced onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
4 peppercorns
1 bay leaf

2 sprigs parsley, chopped
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup water
12 ozs. noodles, cooked
2 tablespoons capers, optional
1 lemon, thinly sliced

1. Combine salt, pepper, paprika and thyme on sheet of waxed paper. Rub seasonings well over all sides of lamb. Coat lightly with flour.
2. Heat vegetable oil slowly in large heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Brown shanks, a few at a time, very slowly on all sides. Remove from pan.
3. Sauté onion and garlic in remaining oil about 5 minutes, until limp and transparent.
4. Return shanks to pan. Add peppercorns, bay leaf, parsley, lemon rind, lemon juice and water.
5. Bring to boiling. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 2 hours, or until tender. Turn shanks once or twice for even cooking. Add small amount of water if necessary.

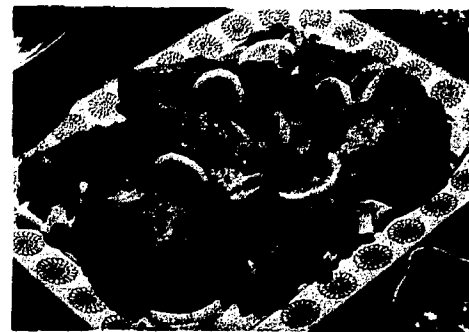

6. Place meat on warm serving platter and keep warm. Blot up surface grease from pan gravy with paper towel; discard.

7. Heat gravy and stir briskly. Thicken if desired with mixture of 1 tablespoon flour and 2 tablespoons water. Bring to boiling, stirring. Let simmer 2-3 minutes.

8. Arrange cooked, drained noodles on platter, top with lamb shanks. Sprinkle with capers and pour some of gravy over lamb. Pass remaining gravy in sauce boat. Garnish platter with lemon slices. Makes 4-6 servings

The Franklin Mint announces a limited edition of

Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories

IN SOLID STERLING SILVER

Norman Rockwell has just completed a series of ten new works of art to be issued exclusively in the form of sterling silver ingots. Subscriptions for First Edition Proof Sets of this new Rockwell collection will be accepted only if they are postmarked by September 15, 1973.

FOR MORE than half a century, the art of Norman Rockwell has brought joy to the hearts of millions of Americans, young and old.

Now this great artist, at the summit of his career, looks back at the people and the country he loves... and portrays his fondest memories in the enduring medium of sterling silver.

Original Rockwell Art

Norman Rockwell has created ten original works of art exclusively for this collection of sterling silver ingots. These ten works will never be produced in any other form.

The First Edition should be of special interest to knowledgeable collectors. Not only because of the importance of the work itself—but also because the First Edition will be the only Proof-quality, hallmarked and serially numbered edition.

The artist speaks about his newest works

"I suppose I'm just a sentimentalist," says Norman Rockwell in describing this series. "I like to show people in happy and tender moments of their lives—sometimes with a little touch of humor. These are the things about people I remember most fondly."

Rockwell has now depicted his "fondest memories," exclusively for this collection, with that special brand of magic that is his alone.

The joy of kids romping at the old swimming hole. The pleasure of old friends meeting around a pot-belly stove. The pride of a Boy Scout carrying the flag in a parade down Main Street. The tenderness of a young girl helping her grandmother with her knitting. The warmth and devotion of a family enjoying a holiday dinner together.

Ten precious moments, ten cherished memories, each one sensitively portrayed by the best-loved American artist of our time.

The genius of Norman Rockwell

Each of "Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories" has been captured in a distinctive form: a sterling silver ingot measuring 2" x 2½" and containing 1500 grains of sterling silver. The famous signature of NORMAN ROCKWELL will appear on each ingot. And the complete set will be struck by The Franklin Mint, the world's foremost private mint.

The hallmarked First Edition Proof Set is available exclusively to subscribers whose orders are postmarked by September 15, 1973.

Build your collection on a convenient monthly basis

Regardless of how high the price of silver may escalate, we guarantee to send you the complete collection of these solid sterling silver ingots at the original issue price of $25 per ingot. You will receive the first ingot in October. Each month thereafter, for nine months, an additional ingot will be sent to you. You will enjoy the pleasure of seeing your collection steadily grow. And within ten months, your collection of "Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories" will be complete.

To house the complete collection, a handsome collector's case fitted with a hardwood display frame will be provided at no additional cost. The collection may thus be kept in the case or proudly displayed on the wall.

An heirloom collection

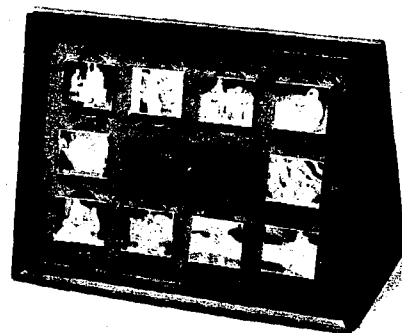

Any new work by an artist of the stature of Norman Rockwell is likely to become an important heirloom. This new Rockwell series is particularly desirable—not only for its beauty and intrinsic value but because it is the first time the work of this beloved artist has ever appeared in ingot form. The only previous medallic issues of Norman Rockwell's work have been the Rockwell Christmas Plates and the "Spirit of Scouting" medals—both Franklin Mint issues which are highly prized today and much sought after by collectors.

Now this new series—"Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories"—can bring you many years of pleasure and provide a treasured legacy you can pass along to your children and grandchildren.

Subscriptions close September 15, 1973

To acquire this important new Rockwell collection, your subscription must be sent to The Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pennsylvania 19063 and postmarked by September 15, 1973. There is a strict limit of one First Edition Proof Set per subscriber.

Outfielder
GARY MADDOX:
Can He Fill Willie Mays' Shoes?

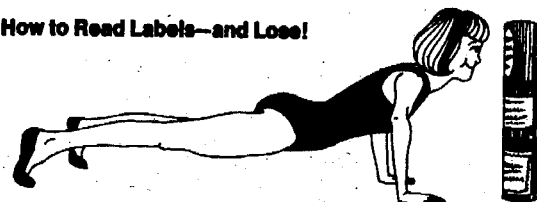

If Gary Maddox of the San Francisco Giants hadn't known when to duck, he wouldn't be alive today to be in the race to capture the National League batting championship. He was on patrol in Vietnam in 1970 when a Vietcong mortar shell came screaming toward his bunker. He ducked just in time to escape the impact of the explosion. When he dug himself free, he found he was unhurt. . . . Gary has found enemy pitchers easier to defeat than the Vietcong. In June he was hitting the ball at a .345 clip. If he wins the batting title he will be in a very select class of major-leaguers who were able to win a crown after less than two seasons in the majors. Maddox, 23, is a native of Cincinnati who grew up in California. He only played half a season in organized ball before getting shipped to Vietnam. "I grew up very fast in Vietnam and decided baseball wasn't my thing," he says. "I felt I should go to college. But my father had a heart attack and my mother became ill, so I wanted to go out and support the family." . . . Maddox's biggest thrill came when he was told he was being groomed to fill the shoes of his boyhood idol, Willie Mays. Maddox has displayed some of Mays' talent in making spectacular catches. He also has been given special dispensation by manager Charlie Fox to wear thick fuzz on his face—his skin is sensitive to the razor's touch.—By Barry Abrahams

The Diet Watch

How to Read Labels—and Lose!

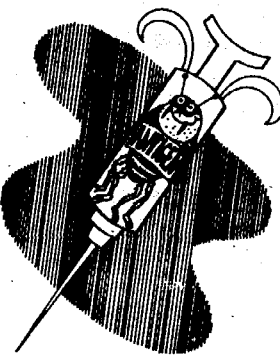

Reading the labels on canned groceries can make you skinnier. Canned stewed tomatoes, for example, contain sugar, but if you buy plain canned tomatoes and add a sugar substitute, you save calories. Checking the labels on canned fruits is important—canned sweetened applesauce, for instance, has 230 calories per cup, but the unsweetened has 100 calories; canned sweetened grapefruit juice has 130 calories per cup, but the unsweetened has only 100 per cup. Fruits packed in light syrup have fewer calories than those in heavy syrup, and water-packed fruits have fewest calories. Keep an eye out, too, when buying uncanned foods: A container of creamed cottage cheese has 260 calories per cup, but plain cottage cheese has only 170 per cup. A dieter needs plenty of nutrition, so cottage cheese might be called the "ideal" food for dieters. It's inexpensive, and a mere half-cupful gives you 20 protein grams, which is a third of our day's protein needs. That's about the same number as you get from a quarter pound of expensive steak.—By Harriet La Barre

The Doctor Lets You In

How Long Does
A Vaccination Last?

Do you believe that once you're immunized you're always safe? As with many other common beliefs—this is also wrong. The body does build up immunity through vaccination, but revaccination is necessary to have continuous protection. Here is how it works: A vaccine called an antigen, made from microorganisms that cause a disease, is injected in minute amounts into the body. It stimulates the body to produce another substance, called an antibody, that fights the disease. But protection conferred by immunization tapers off with the years. For example, a smallpox vaccination lasts only five to seven years. People should get revaccinated when exposed to smallpox or when traveling to areas in which smallpox occurs, like the Far East. (By the way, did you know that a combined vaccine made from six live antigens has been developed recently but is still under study? It consists of a combination of diphtheria-tetanus-whooping-cough-mumps-German-measles-antigens—plus a polio vaccine, too!)—By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

This child has a good home, nice clothes, a loving mother-and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

Look Inside the Mass through an outsider's eyes!

A man meets a woman on her way to Sunday Mass. She invites him to come along. He does. The result is a Sunday morning he will long remember.

Why? Because he discovers that the Mass can be a warm experience of people worshipping together. He senses the presence of Christ, feels moved to pray, finds a new sympathy for the beliefs of others which differ from his own, listens to the word of God calling all to love.

The woman's whispered comments guide him through the ritual and explain away the strangeness. He asks questions and gets straight answers. Pleased and impressed, he concludes that it was God's providence which provided him with this experience.

Now you can share his experience. Read the full story in our free pamphlet: "Pilgrim Goes to Mass" Mail the coupon today. No one will call.

COME ON IN, THE PING-PONG'S FINE!
A new winter swimming idea?

Question: If you cross a swimming pool with 44,000 table-tennis balls, what do you get? If you said a pool table, sit down. What you get is this lovely waterscape in Duhrenbach, Germany. Here, they found that Danish-made plastic balls will act as a thermal insulation blanket when they cover the water. This lowers the cost of heating the water, and enables the pool to remain open year-round. The balls weigh only 3.8 grams each. This means that swimming can be done without any hindrance from the "blanket."

"High blood pressure, a major factor today in premature death from coronary disease, stroke, and also kidney disease, is strongly influenced by heredity. The brothers and sisters of any patient going to a doctor for high blood pressure are eight times as likely as other people to have high blood pressure themselves. If both your parents have had high blood pressure the chances are about 45 percent for you, and if one parent, 30 percent." From "How Not to Die Young," by Dr. Joan Gomez (Stein and Day, $6.98).

BUDDY EBSEN
A Broderick Crawford he's not

Actor Buddy Ebsen, TV's "Barnaby Jones," talks about the difficulties of learning lines: "When I started 'The Beverly Hillbillies,' I learned every word. For two years I had headaches. So I learned to 'wing' it. By that I mean that instead of sitting down every night with a tape recorder and learning the script verbatim, I use word association, with sounds, locations, and so forth. If you asked me today what I said yesterday, I couldn't tell you! I once saw Broderick Crawford come on a set, scan a page of dialogue—and he had it. Every word! Well, now, I don't have that kind of a mind! But once my method backfired. I did a stage play last year and on opening night I was fine. Had every line down pat. But the next night I was terrible! I had erased!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

ROBED THE WRONG WAY

There is a bathrobe that I wear
That has two moth holes and a tear.
It has no style, indeed it's drapeless;
It's wrinkled, rumpled, sadly shapeless.

But it, for me, is fine and dandy:
It's always hanging where it's handy,
It's not too heavy, not too thin,
It fits me like another skin.
Oh yes, I know it's old and ratty
And makes me, I am sure, look batty.
But who's to see me? That's the trick:
The doctor, maybe, when I'm sick,
My wife, my children; others not—
I'd lose what status I have got.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Having one daughter five years old and a son three years old, we were pleased that our third child was another little girl. On my arrival home with the brand new baby, my daughter sat next to me. I was talking about my two beautiful little daughters when my son rambled over and asked sullenly, "Momma, do you like them girls better than me?" Of course I answered, "No, I love all of you, and especially you because you're my only son." With sheer delight and amazement he looked at me and said, "Oh Momma, am I really?"

TULIP 3¢ EACH BULBS

MINIMUM 50 BULBS
FOR ONLY $1.50

Everyone who loves to watch flowers grow is thrilled with the glorious color and graceful beauty of tulips in bloom. Tulips bloom in spring, but... they must be planted in fall! Order now at these low, money-saving prices. Popular varieties in a rainbow mix of flaming reds, dazzling whites, orange, yellow, pink and dark shades as available. Send today.

Bloom Year After Year Without Replanting

These are healthy, hardy medium size planting stock bulbs (2 1/2 - 3" circumference). Given proper soil, care and with normal growing conditions they should develop into larger size bulbs the first year's planting. In fact, we guarantee many blooms next spring, normal bloom the second season and 5 years thereafter or replacement is free. The best thing about tulips, of course, is that they bloom year after year without replanting. Send today.
